Field Support Quick Guide

Internal reference for common support requests. Use the source text as evidence before giving advice.

Topic	What the support team should do	Evidence ID
VPN access	Reset the VPN profile from the Access Portal before escalating. Approval and sync can take up to 15 minutes.	FS-01
Laptop repair	Collect the device serial number and warranty status before booking a repair appointment.	FS-02
Travel receipts	Submit hotel and transport receipts within 30 days. Meals are reimbursed only when attached to approved travel.	FS-03
Account lockout	If password reset does not work, confirm the user identity check and escalate to Identity Support.	FS-04
Shared mailbox	Shared mailbox access requires manager approval and should be removed when the project ends.	FS-05

Search guidance

A search result should preserve the source filename, evidence ID, and enough surrounding text for a reviewer to understand why the chunk matched the query.

Grounding rule

If the document does not contain evidence for the question, the application should say that no strong evidence was found instead of guessing.

Escalation rule

Escalate only after the required first-line checks are complete. The support note should say which evidence ID justified the escalation.

Example query

For the question "How do I fix VPN access?", the strongest evidence should mention resetting the VPN profile from the Access Portal.

Evidence Handling Notes

Use these notes to decide whether a search result is strong enough to show to a user.

Strong evidence

A strong result names the same support topic as the question and includes a concrete action. For example, VPN questions should retrieve the Access Portal reset instruction, not a travel receipt rule.

Weak evidence

A weak result may share a general word with the question but does not answer the user need. If the best chunk is weak, return no strong evidence rather than inventing an answer.

Source transparency

Every returned chunk should include the PDF filename and a preview of the matched text. In a larger system, page numbers would also help reviewers audit the answer.

Chunking advice

Chunks should be large enough to keep a whole support instruction together. Too-small chunks can separate the action from its condition. Too-large chunks can mix unrelated policies.

Review questions

Before trusting a result, ask: Does the chunk answer the question? Does it include a concrete action? Can a reviewer trace it back to the source document?

User question	Expected strongest evidence
How do I fix VPN access?	FS-01: reset the VPN profile from the Access Portal.
What do I need before laptop repair?	FS-02: collect serial number and warranty status.
Can I claim hotel receipts?	FS-03: submit hotel and transport receipts within 30 days.
